Our 11th annual Item Drive, in honor of Mattie's 20th birthday, was a huge success.

The Foundation is grateful to all our supporters who donated countless toiletry items to stock our Snack & Item Carts at MedStar Georgetown University Hospital

(Washington, DC), Children's Hospital at Sinai (Baltimore, MD), and The Clinical Center at the National Institutes of Health (Bethesda, MD).

Our Carts offer free items to over 2,500 families a year. We are honored to be able to provide psychosocial comfort and care through our Snack & Item Carts, and we are grateful for the generosity of our supporters.

Funding Innovation

Mattie Miracle is proud to have funded the innovative research of Dr. Kim Canter since 2018. Kim is committed to the implementation of the Psychosocial Standards of Care and we are honored to to have helped to support the development of her web based intervention to support families of children with cancer. We invite you to read Kim's reflections on her Mattie Miracle grant and how this grant enabled her to qualify and obtain a major research grant.

Reflections from Dr. Kim Canter:

"I am pleased to provide an exciting update about the Electronic Surviving Cancer Competently Intervention Program (eSCCIP), a web-based psychosocial intervention for parents and caregivers of children with cancer that I have been developing since 2015. The support of the Mattie Miracle Cancer Foundation has been extremely important as my program of research related to eSCCIP has grown over the past several years.

As the inaugural recipient of the Mattie Miracle Early Investigator Award, I was able to conduct a rigorous pilot test of eSCCIP in partnership with Inova Life with Cancer, a program of the Inova Schar Cancer Institute. At the conclusion of this award, the Mattie Miracle Cancer Foundation generously provided additional funding to develop a Spanish-language adaption of eSCCIP, helping to extend the reach of the program to a critical subset of parents who have been historically excluded from many research studies and intervention programs.

The work that I have been able to conduct with support from Mattie Miracle is closely aligned with the Standards for Psychosocial Care for Children with Cancer and Their Families. Additionally, this work helped to lay the groundwork for my successful R01 grant submission to the National Cancer Institute, funded in early 2022. This is a major research grant that will allow me to lead a multisite study to test the English and Spanish versions of eSCCIP at several pediatric hospitals across the United States. In additional to examining several important psychosocial outcomes, this award will also allow us to begin to explore possible cost savings of eSCCIP, an essential step in scaling up the intervention. This is an exciting and essential step in the process of extending the reach of eSCCIP to all parents and caregivers who might benefit from the intervention.

Generous support from Mattie Miracle has also helped me attend national conferences where I am able to share eSCCIP with the scientific community and discuss early findings from my pilot work. In April of 2022, after several long years of virtual conferences, I will be attending an inperson meeting of the Society of Pediatric Psychology and speaking as part of a panel about conducting psychosocial intervention work in pediatric oncology. I am also excited to present with other Mattie Miracle supported researchers at the 2022 virtual meeting of the American Psychosocial Oncology Society, and eagerly await the next time that we can gather in person.

On an additional personal and professional note, the Browns have become close colleagues and I am very fortunate to have their support and partnership as we work towards the shared goal of improving psychosocial care for children with cancer and their families. We have important future projects in the works, and I look forward to the next steps!"
